Dear Sir/Madam,

I am the investor of Westlake Chemical Partners LP (WLKP) and I have huge losses on WLKP stock due to the announcement of IRS proposed regulations. This is not fair to WLKP investor like myself. My family and I have suffered tremendously from this announcement.

I could not understand how IRS could promise Westlake Chemical Partnership 9 months ago that Westlake Chemical Partnership could have an IPO, and within 9 months that IRS wants to reverse its own decision? I believe it took a lot of time for IRS to be very carefully making a decision and made the promise, and how can IRS break the promise in just 9 months? This is not fair to WLKP investors by changing the ruling after the fact. The stock price dropped 30% in just 2 days. It continued to drop after that.

I believe IRS should keep the promise and let WLKP continue to exist forever. Fairness is an essential element in the stock market. I chose WLKP to invest because WLKP is an excellent company. IRS's announcement is a disaster to an excellent company and all the investors. When IRS promised something, it needs to keep the promise. A simple change by IRS is a disaster and nightmare to so many families and individuals who invested in WLKP.

We are the victims of such IRS announcement, which is absolutely not fair to WLKP investors.

Please do something to help us.

Sincerely,
